

Containers Are Becoming The New Production Norm

IT professionals believe that – on average –

39% of their organization's production workloads will run on containers in 24 months

As containers become the new norm, organizations need consistent and simplified data protection solutions that provide the performance, efficiency, and scalability to protect modern workloads across any cloud. That's where Dell Technologies' proven and modern cloud data protection solutions can help future-proof your environment.
